Centralia College criminal justice professor Greg Gilbertson will soon tape an episode of “Law & Order: You the Jury” in Los Angeles on June 11-14.

Gilbertson was recently contacted by producers involved with the “Law & Order” television franchise and will appear as an expert witness of the new reality show spinoff.

“This is a very exciting opportunity,” Gilbertson said, “I’ve received a lot of support from current and former students, they’re very excited. I don’t know when the episode will air, but I’ve promised to keep them posted.”

He will work with producers Melinda Binks and Mike Lucas, as well as Houston criminal defense attorney Casey Garrett, who appeared on an episode of “Law & Order: Cold Justice.”

Gilbertson is a licensed private investigator who has specialized in criminal defense for 14 years. Over the past two years, his practice has focused on expert witness casework in police misconduct, excessive force, self-defense, false arrest and police practices and procedures, stated the press release.

He has completed 34 expert witness reports with 29 law firms in 12 states.
